In most ways, Sarah McCarthy is an average high schooler. She has a job, college plans, but also a peculiar passion for a 16-year-old: She's a vinyl junkie. To her, there's nothing like the crackle, the depth of sound, the dusty records she found in the basement of her grandfather.

"He gave me his receiver and speaker system and told me to listen to it the way it was made to be listened to," McCarthy said. "I've turned a lot of my friends on to it. They come over a lot to listen with me."

Sarah knows the difference between a 45 and an LP. She met her boyfriend in a record shop and now works there.

"Listening to old music remastered to a newer format is almost comical," Sarah said. "They weren't meant to be digitalised. Listening to Jimi Hendrix on my iPod doesn't capture his endlessly deep guitar solos quite like a 33 LP of 'Blues' does."

This girl's in love with vinyl, and she's not the only member of Generation Digital with an ear for records.
